SAN BRUNO MARSHAL KILLS FUGITIVE FROM STOLEN CAR

Edward Joseph McGlenon of San Francisco Is Shot Following Attempt to Break Into the Cabin Garage

After an investigation of the killing of Edward J. McGlenon, 19-year-old youth of San Francisco, by City Marshal A. G. Meehan of San Bruno, the coroner's jury turned in a verdict which, following the usual preliminaries, read, "We believe the shooting to have been unwarranted under the circumstances." Foreman Al C. Sweetser later said that the verdict was based on the fact that Meehan had captured two of the others in the same party without shooting, and that an effort should have been made to get McGlenon in the same way. The members of the jury, he said, did not believe that the offense warranted shooting in making the arrest.

McGlenon was shot and killed by the San Bruno marshal when the boys fled from a stalled machine in a road near Uncle Tom's Cabin at 1:45 o'clock Thursday morning. The dead man, who was a truck driver, lived with his parents at 153 Corbett avenue, San Francisco.

Timothy O'Leary, 21 years old, living at 372 Shotwell street, and James Henry Loftus, 19 years old, living with his parents at 484 Diamond street, who were captured by Meehan, are in jail in Redwood City. Justice H. C. Johnson of Daly City on Thursday fixed bail at $2000 in each case.

McGlenon Throws Brick.

The battle started when McGlenon threw a brick through a window in the Cabin Garage across from Uncle Tom's Cabin. E. G. Lieniz, who was sleeping in the attic, was aroused. Calling from the window that he would shoot, he frightened the boys away. In the meantime Marshal Meehan was summoned by telephone and arrived a few moments later in his automobile. He followed in the general direction taken by the stolen car along a little-used road off the main highway toward the Huntington station of the United Railroads, and found it stalled in a marshy road with the five youths about it making frantic efforts to move on.

Marshal Meehan and Lieniz walked up to the stalled car and ordered the men to surrender. Two of them complied with the order, but the other three made a break for liberty and ran off into the darkness in the direction of San Bruno crossing. Lieniz pursued them and, after ordering the two men who had surrendered to remain in the glare of the headlight under penalty of shooting if they moved, Meehan started after the fleeing trio.

Fatal Shot Fired.

He made out two figures moving some distance ahead of him, but hesitated to shoot, fearing one of them might be the garage man. A moment later he saw the flash of Lieniz' pistol in another direction. Meehan then fired with his rifle at one of the fugitives, who dropped in his tracks. It proved to be McGlenon, who was found with a bullet in his heart. Dr. H. S. Smith was summoned, but declared that death had been instantaneous. Meehan then notified the coroner and took his prsoners to the county jail.

It is reported that four shots were fired at different times by Meehan and Lieniz in an attempt to frighten the escaping men, before the fatal shot which killed McGlenon was discharged.

"We were at a party at the home of Henry Ingwerson, 21 Henry street, when McGlenon proposed that we take a ride," he said. "I thought he owned the car, which was standing before the house next door. I refused at first, because the night was cold, but later changed my mind and we went out. At Twenty-second and Mission streets we picked up the two men, "Patsy" and Code, whom I did not know, and then started out the highway. We soon ran out of gasoline, and I handed over 90 cents, all the money I had, to get a supply, as none of the others had money. We knocked at the Cabin Garage door, trying to arouse some one. Getting no response, one of the boys broke the chain on the automatic gasoline station and we got several gallons. Then we needed oil, so McGlenon threw a brick through the window. I protested, but it did no good."

Dr. John M. Stowell of 632 Haight street, was making a call on an influenza patient at 21 Henry street, next door to the Ingwerson party, when his car was taken. He had other calls to make that night and was forced to do so on foot. His automobile, undamaged, was taken to the Cabin Garage.

Loftus had a prayer-book in his pocket when arrested. When informed by Dr. F. Holmes Smith, who was summoned to treat McGlenon, that McGlenon was dead, Loftus was much agitated.

Timothy O'Leary, the other captured man, refused to talk, and it is stated he took the news of McGlenon's death stolidly. "Oh, what's the difference?" he is reported to have said.

One of the men captured by Meehan and left standing at the automobile made his escape, but a San Francisco attorney telephoned that the man would give himself up. He is supposed to be "Butch" Code.

Mrs. John McGlenon, mother of the dead youth, was prostrated when informed of his fate. She refused to believe that he had knowingly ridden in a stolen car. He had never been in trouble before, she said.

All of the men, with the exception of McGlenon, are employed at the Schaw-Batcher Company Shipyards here.

San Bruno Terrorized.

According to Meehan, San Bruno has been terrorized recently by a wave of crime. About ten days ago the Home Grocery was robbed and the proprietor, Frank Bolio, fired two shots at the burglars as they fled in the darkness. A week ago the City Hall Garage was robbed; last Monday night the Gorman home was robbed of $150 in money, and on New Year's eve the San Bruno school house was entered and ransacked. Other attempts at burglary have been made, according to the San Bruno police, who say they have been constantly on the lookout for the robbers.

McGlenon, the dead man, does not have the appearance of a criminal, according to Deputy Coroner Schneider, who brought the remains to San Mateo. He was well dressed in a dark suit and soft felt hat. The deputy coroner was unable to say whether the men had been drinking.

OBSTINATE FIRE AT GOLDEN EAGLE

DEFECTIVE FLUE CAUSE OF COSTLY BLAZE IN NEWLY OPENED HOTEL ON SAN BRUNO ROAD.

A stubborn fire which threatened to destroy the newly built Golden Eagle Hotel at San Bruno and Pine avenues, broke out at 2:30 Saturday morning.

When Fire Chief Truax arrived at the scene of the fire the flames had eaten in between the rafters and it was necessary to chop away a large portion of the floors to prevent a further spread of the flames. A short-circuit of the electric lighting threw the place into darkness and made the work of the fire fighters more hazardous and difficult.

The local fire department fought the blaze for four hours and during its progress guests of the hostelry poured into the street carrying trunks, valises and other belongings with them, all of which were piled in the roadway.

The damage to the building, which was uninsured, will exceed $1000. The furniture loss will be slight and is fully covered by insurance. The hotel, which was opened about ten days ago, is owned by S. Gianella, former proprietor of the South City Hotel on Grand avenue.

No one was injured.

The fire was caused by a defective flue.

The courtroom here will be opened on Tuesday, January 7, and cases will be heard on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

SCHAW-BATCHER EMPLOYEES TO STAGE MINSTREL SHOW

Monster Melange of Music and Mirth Will Be Presented at Savoy Theatre for Full Week Commencing Sunday

An aggregation of worth-while talent, employees of the Schaw-Batcher Company Ship Works, will stage a monster minstrel and vaudeville show at the Savoy Theatre during the week commencing Sunday, January 5.

In addition to the performers in the employ of the ship works, concert numbers by the Chinese band, the Union Iron Works band and the Philippine string quartet will be included among the excellent array of numbers programmed for the potpourri of vaudeville and minstrelsy and the melange of music and mirth which will be presented.

A nightly parade will be one of the features of the big show. The performers, headed by several bands, will leave the Savoy Theatre each evening at 7 and parade the downtown streets of San Francisco.

"Shipyard Justice," a screaming comedy, will be staged, and the special vaudeville number, "Sane and Insane," with Joe Longfeather and Sam B. Weil in an act of "upside down vaudeville," piano and jazz, will be one of the special events of the lengthy program.

George Roberts is to be interlocutor and Booth and Sharkey end men in the minstrel show.

At the close of the week's performance at the Savoy Theatre it is planned to play the peninsula towns. Proceeds of the show will be used for the establishment of the Ship Builders' Club at the Schaw-Batcher Company Ship Works.

HAPPY NEW YEAR

For the past four years the menacing shadow of Prussianism with its multitude of attendant horrors lay like a hideous blanket upon the universal soul of mankind—soaking the earth with the blood of freemen from many nations who gladly made the supreme sacrifice that the world might be made safe for democracy.

Their struggle has not been in vain, and this year a deeper a more profound significance attaches itself to our rejoicing. For now the shadow is lifted from the Yuletide glow and the spirit that was born twenty centuries ago has come again to bless humanity.

The coming year is big with promise. That you may have the full measure of realization which will make it a Happy New Year which November 11 made sure, is the hearty wish of The Enterprise.

STEEL MILL EMPLOYEE DIES FROM SCALDING

M. BUCKLEY SUCCUMBS AT SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO HOSPITAL AS RESULT OF ACCIDENT.

M. Buckley, who was scalded Thursday night by falling into a tank of hot water and acid at the galvanizing plant of the Pacific Coast Steel Company, died at the South San Francisco Hospital early Saturday morning.

Buckley had been employed at the plant only four days when he met with the accident which caused his death.

He was formerly employed on the United States merchant ship Caesare.

He made his home at the San Joaquin Hotel in San Francisco, was 38 years of age and unmarried.

A good many people who are worrying themselves wobbly about what is going to become of the nation might help the situation some by getting busy on some job of useful work.

TRAFFIC LAWS MUST BE OBEYED

CHIEF CONRAD SENDS LETTER OF WARNING TO CALIFORNIA AUTOMOBILE ASSOCIATION.

Speed bugs, cut-out offenders, corner cutters and other violators of the traffic rules of South San Francisco are in for a hard time here, according to a letter addressed to the California State Automobile Association by Chief of Police Clyde C. Conrad.

According to Chief Conrad the violators of traffic rules have caused many accidents in the past eight months, particularly on Sunday, when motor travel is heavy. Cutting corners and traveling at high speed are mostly to blame for the accidents, according to Chief Conrad.

Many of the motorists ignore entirely the iron discs which have been placed at street intersections as markers, and Chief Conrad believes that these signs are sufficiently noticeable and that he has issued enough warnings. From now on he will haul into court offenders who fail to go around these discs in making a turn.

In his letter to the Automobile Association, Chief Conrad writes: "Cutting corners will be considered a serious offense against the traffic laws and I am writing you in the hope that you will notify your members and all other motorists to that effect, anticipating that we will have their cooperation in reducing the number of accidents by eliminating the practice of cutting corners."

COBURN CASE ENDS IN COMPROMISE

THREATENED WILL CONTEST IS SATISFACTORILY SETTLED OUT OF COURT.

The threatened will contest over the $1,300,000 estate of the late Loren Coburn of Pescadero came to an end Tuesday morning, with the filing of an assignment and agreement in the case in the office of the County Recorder in Redwood City. By the terms of the assignment and agreement, Azro Coburn, nephew of the eccentric millionaire, will inherit one-half of the estate upon the death of Coburn's invalid son, Wallace, now 62 years of age. Mrs. Satira Coburn, the widow, gets the other half. Wallace's half, however, is in the trust of Azro. In the event that the son dies, Azro Coburn becomes heir to that half.

By the terms of the first will, which was admitted to probate, Coburn left one-half of his estate to his widow and the other half to his son, Mrs. Coburn to receive the son's share upon his death. In the event that she did not survive the son, his share was to go to Judge J. A. Bardin and C. H. Wiedermann, old friends of Coburn. Mrs. Coburn on Tuesday assigned her rights to the fortune left to the son to Azro Coburn, and Judge Bardin and Wiedermann did the same.

A second will, filed a few days after the first, named Azro Coburn the chief beneficiary.

When the case was called Tuesday Carl Coburn, adopted son of the dead man's brother, and his wife took the stand before Judge Buck and testified that the second will was signed in their presence and that they acted as witnesses, although, they said, they did not believe Loren Coburn was of sound mind at the time he made the will. Judge Buck then left the stand and was succeeded on the bench by Judge John L. Hudner, who ruled in favor of the first will and ordered it admitted to probate. Shortly after his ruling the two assignments, which bore the date of December 14, were filed.

Before the case was called, Widermann, who is lessee of the Coburn ranch, filed an agreement in which he consented to transfer one-half interest in an option to buy the property for $375,000 to Azro Coburn for $100,000, this sum representing one-half the cost of improvements he had made on the property.

Presence of the second will, bequeathing Wallace Coburn's share to the nephew, Azro, was not made known until a few days after the attorneys on both sides prepared for a legal contest.

ROBBERS AGAIN VISIT CITY OF BURLINGAME

Two more burglaries were reported to the Burlingame police New Year's eve and Wednesday.

While Mr. and Mrs. Grant B. Morris of 1460 Chapin avenue were attending the motion picture show New Year's eve, burglars entered their home and carried off two diamond rings, a wedding ring, a lavalier set with a diamond and a diamond pin. Entrance to the house was gained by pulling a screen off a window. Morris is a linotype operator and his home is on Chapin avenue near the State highway.

Tuesday night Eric Lange of Lange & Bergstrom, the contractors, and formerly mayor of Burlingame, returned home to find that his house had been entered and ransacked. Nothing of value was taken and the police believe the thieves were looking for money and jewelry. When Lange left the house New Year's eve he was careful to leave nothing of that kind in the house.

"The World for Sale" Feature at Royal Theatre for Tuesday Next

Conway Tearle, who plays the leading male role in "The World for Sale," a Paramount picture, has appeared with the most noted English and American actresses of both stage and screen, including Sir Charles Wyndam, Ellen Terry, Billie Burke, Ethel Barrymore, Grace George, William Faversham, Viola Allen and Emily Stevens. His last appearance on the stage was with Emily Stevens in "The Fugitive." In "The World for Sale," Mr. Tearle takes the part of Max Ingolby, the strong man of brains and brawn, whom Sir Gilbert Parker has vividly drawn as the hero. This is a difficult role, requiring the most delicate handling, for which Mr. Tearle's previous experience has eminently fitted him. "The World for Sale" will be shown on Tuesday, January 7, at the Royal Theatre.

APPALLING MISERY IN THE NEAR EAST

4,000,000 CHRISTIANS STARVING TO DEATH CRY TO AMERICA FOR AID.

Two hundred motor trucks, of no further use to the United States government in France, have been acquired by the Armeian-Syrian relief workers for use in Western Asia carrying medical supplies and food into the interior of the devastated country. On the return trip the trucks will be loaded with sick and aged Armenian refugees who have been wandering about helplessly for three years when their homes were taken from them and they were turned out into the deserts to starve to death by the Turks.

There are nearly 4,000,000 of these helpless, destitute people who must be saved from starvation. Appproximately 700,000 Armeians are at this moment homeless, starving and in want of clothing and common necessaries, scattered through Turkey, Asia Minor, Syria and Mesopotamia.

At least 300,000 Greeks have been deported or are in danger of starvation. In Persia, 1,000,000 are destitute; in Palestine and Egypt, 100,000; in Damascus, 100,000; in Caucasus, 300,000. The figures are appalling. The need is imperative.

The American Committee for Armenian and Syrian Relief will make a drive for funds during the week of January 12. This community has a small quota which should be subscribed immediately and a large oversubscription obtained. Already the work of relief is going on in anticipation of the open-hearted response of the American people to a truly worthy appeal.

MRS. CREED BROWN OF SAN MATEO ARRESTED

CHARGES OF DRIVING WHILE INTOXICATED LODGED AGAINST SAN MATEO WOMAN.

Mrs. Gertrude Brown of San Mateo was arrested in San Francisco on Thursday while motoring with her husband, Creed H. Brown. A charge of driving while under the influence of liquor was lodged against the young woman.

She spent two hours in the city prison while her husband was raising $500 bail to secure her release.

Brown has been in the service, stationed at Camp Fremont, and his wife has been living on their ranch near Cupertino. Thursday they came to Redwood City to be present when Brown's petition for final distribution of his mother's estate came up for hearing before Judge Buck. The petition was continued for a week and the couple then started out for San Francisco in their automobile, with Mrs. Brown at the wheel.

On Mission street the automobile bumped into another machine and Mrs. Brown was arrested by Police Sergeant Russell, who said she was under the influence of liquor.

The estate which will be turned over to Creed Brown in a few days consists of valuable San Mateo real estate and stock in the International Harvester Company.

When in the San Francisco city prison Mrs. Brown said: "I don't mind this. I have often wondered what the inside of a prison really looks like."

U. S. HEALTH SERVICE ISSUES WARNING

Increase in All Respiratory Diseases After the Influenza Epidemic Probable.

Influenza Expected to Lurk for Months. How to Guard Against Pneumonia. Common Colds Highly Catching—Importance of Suitable Clothing—Could Save 100,000 Lives.

Washington, D. C.—With the subsidence of the epidemic of influenza the attention of health officers is directed to pneumonia, bronchitis and other diseases of the respiratory system which regularly cause a large number of deaths, especially during the winter season. According to Rupert Blue, Surgeon General of the United States Public Health Service, these diseases will be especially prevalent this winter unless the people are particularly careful to obey health instructions.

"The present epidemic," said Surgeon General Blue, "has taught by bitter experience how readily a condition beginning apparently as a slight cold may go on to pneumonia and death. Although the worst of the epidemic is over, there will continue to be a large number of scattered cases, many of them mild and unrecognized, which will be danger spots to be guarded against." The Surgeon General likened the present situation to that after a great fire, saying, "No fire chief who understands his business stops playing the hose on the charred debris as soon as the flames and visible fire have disappeared. On the contrary, he continues the water for hours and even days, for he knows that there is danger of the fire rekindling from smoldering embers."

"Then you fear another outbreak of influenza?" he was asked. "Not necessarily another large epidemic," said the Surgeon General, "but unless the people learn to realize the seriousness of the danger they will be compelled to pay a heavy death toll from pneumonia and other respiratory diseases.

Common Colds Highly Catching.

"It is encouraging to observe that people are beginning to learn that ordinary coughs and colds are highly catching and are spread from person to person by means of droplets of germ laden mucus. Such droplets are sprayed into the air when careless or ignorant people cough or sneeze without covering their mouth and nose. It is also good to know that people have learned something about the value of fresh air. In summer, when people are largely out of doors, the respiratory diseases (coughs, colds, pneumonia, etc.) are infrequent; in the fall, as people begin to remain indoors, the respiratory diseases increase; in the winter, when people are prone to stay in badly ventilated, overheated rooms, the respiratory diseases become very prevalent.

Suitable Clothing Important.

"Still another factor in the production of colds, pneumonia and other respiratory diseases is carelessness or ignorance of the people regarding suitable clothing during the seasons when the weather suddenly changes, sitting in warm rooms too heavily dressed or, what is even more common, especially among women, dressing so lightly that windows are kept closed in order to be comfortably warm. This is a very injurious practice.

Could Save 100,000 Lives.

"I believe we could easily save one hundred thousand lives annually in the United States if all the people would adopt the system of fresh air living followed, for example, in tuberculosis sanatoria. There is nothing mysterious about it—no specific medicine, no vaccine. The important thing is right living, good food and plenty of fresh air.

Droplet Infection Explained in Pictures.

"The Bureau of Public Health, Treasury Department, has just issued a striking poster drawn by Berryman, the well-known Washington cartoonist. The poster exemplifies the modern method of health education. A few years ago, under similar circumstances, the health authorities would have issued an official dry but scientifically accurate bulletin teaching the role of droplet infection in the spread of respiratory diseases. The only ones who would have understood the bulletin would have been those who already knew all about the subject. The man in the street, the plain citizen and the many millions who toil for their living would have had no time and no desire to wade through the technical phraseology."

COLDS, INFLUENZA, PNEUMONIA, AND TUBERCULOSIS ARE SPREAD THIS WAY

Copies of this poster can be obtained free of charge by writing to the Surgeon General, U. S. Public Health Service, Washington, D. C.

Let us all join fervently in hoping that Mr. Glass, the new Secretary of the Treasury, doesn't crack under the strain.

The grandmother of the Russian revolution is on her way to the United States. We hope she isn't bringing the kid along.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 3, 1919.

Our New Year's Resolution

Here we are fairly started on 1919. The salutation of "Happy New Year" has just ceased ringing in your ears, and your New Year's resolutions are all made and in order.

Perhaps you have made up your mind to be more kindly this year; perhaps you have determined to be more economical; maybe on the contrary you have resolved to be more generous; possibly more industrious.

These, whatever they may be, are the individual good qualities which you wish to gain. But there is one quality which we shall every one of us need very much through 1919, and that is patience.

We have just come to the end of a great war, for which we have all borne deprivations and made sacrifices, and naturally we are all very anxious to see the conditions of peace restored exactly as they used to be.

But this will be a matter of time. It has taken time and infinite effort to prepare the country for war, and life will not lapse into its old lines in a moment.

It will take some time to bring our army home. It will take time for inflated war prices to go down to normal level. There will have to be slow readjustment of every kind, possibly some change in wages, and this cannot be hurried. We must continue to conserve food for starving Europe until the next harvest. There will be a Victory Loan, for our men must be supplied as hitherto until the army is completely mustered out.

The problems of the Government will be many and serious, and we must not expect impossibilities.

Now shall we all resolve to meet these conditions with the utmost patience? All in favor signify by saying aye. Contrary same sign. Resolution carried unanimously.

Patience shall be our watchword for 1919.

To Save a Nation

There is a trail of human bones across the deserts of Turkey—a trail that ends with starving women and children—the remnants of a race.

You know the tale of Arcadia, the story which inspired Longfellow to write Evangeline. That was pitiful and heart-rending, but the story of Armenia is ten thousand times worse. To-day the scattered wrecks of a crucified nation are pleading with America to save their lives.

Villages in desolation and ruin; farms where once the housewife stood at the door with her children by her side and welcomed the husband home, are now scenes of solitude. The great Mesopotamian desert, once the granary of the world, to-day is a howling wilderness, the silence of death over all.

All this has come because of the cruelty of the Turks with the connivance of the Germans. Heartlessly, hundreds of thousands of women and children were deported, men were massacred, young girls sold into worse than slavery.

And what for? Because these Christian Armenians would not recognize Mohammed, but gloried in their faith for Jesus Christ. For this a nation, the oldest Christian nation in the world, has been all but annihilated.

America must help these remaining people to exist. This country that has made the world safe for democracy must not now fail to rcognize the duty it owes in the Near East.

The American Committee for Relief in the Near East will ask for $30,000,000 during the week of January 12. Of course you are going to help. Make your life-saving gift as large as your heart.

The hitherto insignificant copper has stepped on the top round of the ladder of public notice. Even the popular nickel cannot pass for much these days without his smooth-rimmed side-kick—the penny.

And say, what has happened to a certain Billious Sundae? Some one must accept the credit for ending the war and forcing the Kaiser to change his views. Surely so able a body as our Rev. William who has turned so many thousands of men from their old tactics, will not let the laurel pass when there is only one, outcast, penitent dutcherland in question.

Perhaps Billy, though, shuns the oddity of having to publicly observe that a fellow possessing such a grand and upright nom de plume as William needs assistance to place his oxfords on the gates-ajar path.

We all remember that the Kaiser once remarked that he "would stand no nonsense from America after the war." He does not know yet how much good hard American common sense it may be necessary for him to stand "after the war."

If we know the good old U. S., the Christmas spirit will not go home to rest for another year. It will be actively with us through 1919. There was never more need of it.

If we are to conserve our meat during 1919, suppose we begin by dispensing with pork barrel legislation.

Many activities ceased with the war, but the Red Cross stays on the job.

Just at present the National League is having its leisure season. Why can it not utilize its time in working out a formula for the League of Nations?

If it came to a choice, would Holland rather entertain William Hohenzollern or the flu?

The organizations formed for the purpose fo getting the returning soldier "back to his job" stand aghast when they are informed that he wants a better job.

PAPER SUBSTITUTES SHOWN

The extent to which paper has been used in Europe during the war to replace various textiles is shown in an exhibition at the office of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce in the customhouse, New York city. There are samples of camouflage material, and of machine-gun belting, also paper textile carpets comprising different patterns which have the general appearance of matting.

By the way, has anybody heard anything lately about German efficiency?

In ancient days, if a man who visited the tyrant Procrustes was too long for the "spare bed," Procrustes calmly had him cut down to fit it. It is fortunate for President Wilson that he goes a-visiting in modern times. When the state bed in the French palace where the President lodged proved too short for him they simply sent out and got another bed.

With the various countries in Europe and Asia which Germany is expected to rehabilitate and provide supplies for, she must feel like the Old Woman who lived in a Shoe. The German instinct would be to "give them some broth without any bread, and pound them all soundly and kick them to bed."

A Western automobile club has pledged itself to buy no German-made goods for seven years. We ourselves are quite ready to abstain from all German-made goods for seventy years. Before that time we trust that we shall require only goods made in heaven.

It may interest some of the good people to know that more cigarettes are now sold by the Y. M. C. A. than any other concern in the world.

FALL FROCKS AT HOME—ABROAD

America Makes a More Definite Change in Attire Than Does Paris.

SILHOUETTE TO REMAIN SAME

Long and Short Skirt Problem Continues to Be an Absorbing Topic—Writer Claims Medieval Gown Is Rampant.

New York.—The great offensive in fashions, which the world has been awaiting with anxious uncertainty, did not take place.

The silhouette remains practically the same for autumn as it has been for two years. There is enough in the fashions, however, to keep the public guessing and put it on the defensive. Things are not exactly as they were, although the fundamentals remain the same.

The interesting development of the output of apparel for autumn is the fact that America makes a more definite change than does Paris. She advocates the frock with the instep-length skirt. She even lowers the hem of her tailored suits for the street.

Paris does nothing of the kind. She takes advantage of the fact that the government demands less usage of wool in clothes and cuts her skirts to such a height that it is improbable an American woman would wear them, unless she is in uniform, driving an automobile or doing other active work.

France, as was said before, put out these short skirts with the plea that they were in co-operation with the government and that they were suggested by the short skirts worn by American women in the war service abroad; but those were uniforms that the American women wore. The French mind may not have grasped that we're not all in uniform over here and that those who do wear the regulation service costume have many other clothes in their wardrobe to which they resort as soon as their war service hours are over.

Medievalism Still Rampant.

We have worn atrociously short skirts, and even in the most polite circles, where one expected conservation, there have been unduly scant clothes worn on the plea that they were comfortable. One cared very little about it when the wearers were flappers, as the English put it, but when they were women with gray hair whose figures had matronly curves and whose faces the lines that grandmothers often get, these ten and twelve-inch skirts were more than grotesque; they were in bad taste.

The first delightful conviction that comes to the mind of the woman looking for autumn clothes this month is the unchanged silhouette. She will let the long and the short skirt problem lie fallow for a while, although in doing this, she will make a mistake, for, if the entire world wears its skirts long by Thanksgiving the women who sit in outer darkness will wail and gnash their teeth. They can put a hem on any skirt, it is true, and this may be a compromise between an old and a new fashion which will of necessity be adopted over the land.

A Peirrot top coat of beige-colored velours which has the revived barrel outline. It is trimmed with wide bands of Yukon seal and fastened with immense buttons of the fur.

It is, however, the continuance of the straight line that pleases women. Here and there it is broken into bits by clever designers who wish to insist upon what is called the tonneau silhouette or the draped skirt, but these are details.

The fact of main importance is that even with the tonneau skirt or one arranged according to the tight, pullback drapery of more than three decades ago, the waistline is big, the ankle line is slim, and the pencil outline from head to heels remains.

It is these draped skirts which the Americans put out in June and wore in August that are still very much the thing. They have no bustle effect, and their narrowness at the hem is comfortably obviated by an inset, fan-shaped plaiting at the back which gives the feet entire freedom of movement.

Yet, considering these new fashions and realizing that they are possible winners in the race for a settled fashion by Thanksgiving, the absorbing fact remains that the medieval gown is rampant.

The long chemise tunic is not as smart as the chemise frock. In truth,

An afternoon frock of black and gray satin, in which the bodice and underskirt are of black and the overskirt is in strips of gray and black caught up over the girdle at one side. It is trimmed with Russian squirrel.

there are many houses that will not handle the long tunic at all, and yet they lay great stress upon the long coat, which has exactly the same effect.

The short tunic, however, with its medieval waistline, if one may call so slight an indentation of the surface by the name of waistline, is exceedingly good. It is shown on a great majority of American and French models. This tunic might be called the foundation stone of autumn costumery, for its lines are used for a jacket to a plaid skirt, a cuirass blouse to be worn with or without a coat, and a fur jacket to be worn with separate skirts or one-piece frocks. It hangs limply down the figure to a circular line halfway between knees and hips. Its hem is irregular, as all hems are, even on many of the new sleeves. But this is true of it, and it is a significant fact, that no matter how it is made, or of what material, it carries with it an exceedingly narrow skirt. We have never worn just such a skirt as we will wear this autumn, and it is at its best under this short, mediaeval tunic.

Certain Debatable Fashions.

If a woman bases her autumn purchasing on these fundamental facts of costumery, she may not go far wrong, for by this time, she knows what the good materials are, as well as the proper combinations of peltry and various fabrics; but she may not be aware of the fatal facility that certain fashions have shown for overpopularity. She may want to avoid them for that reason, or she may want to adopt them. It all depends upon her viewpoint and attitude of mind toward popularity as it is expressed in any form.

There are few shop windows that do not display one or both, and the price ranges from $10 to $100 for the garment. When fringe first came into being, it was heralded by all of us as a new touch, and a good one; but those who have been compelled to observe the new incoming fashions day after day and hour after hour, have found their eyes closing involuntarily at the sight of a gown with fringe.

The same is true of the narrow, accordion-plaited skirt. It is strange that this fashion did not burst into full bloom when it was advanced last February. A New York designer put out many suits with this skirt which clung to the figure as though we were back in the days of Thais of Alexandria.

The truth is that accordion-plaited, transparent skirts are shown without a lining, and a woman must work out her own salvation if she is to wear one. And the best part of it is that they are exceedingly graceful when properly arranged over a thin, supple, tight lining of satin.

However, if you wish to be out of the procession of popularity, pass them by.

RED MEN PLAN RECEPTION FOR RETURNED SOLDIERS

Tippecanoe Tribe, No. 111, Improved Order of Red Men, will hold an exceptional meeting Thursday evening, January 9.

A reception will be tendered the heroes who are back from overseas and the different cantonments.

This tribe has the largest service flag of any fraternal organization in the county. Three silver stars adorn it, in honor of its members who were wounded in the service of our country.

Installation will also be held. All members are requested to attend the meeting. This is a good opportunity for our returning members to appreciate the home of fraternalism, which many have not had the chance to see since its opening.

One of the good old times, for which Tippecanoe is noted, will be held.

RECOUNT ELECTS GRIFFIN BY NINETEEN MAJORITY

Ray Griffin of Redwood City was elected Justice of the Peace of the Third Township on November 5 by a majority of nineteen votes over George E. Seely, the incumbent. The recount demanded by Seely was held in Judge Buck's court and resulted in the discovery of an error in Redwood Precinct No. 3, which increased Griffin's majority from 3 to 19.

The vote as returned by the election board November 5 was 928 for Griffin and 925 for Seely. In Redwood Precinct No. 3 the election board counted 86 for Seely and 51 for Griffin, a lead of 35 for Seely in that precinct. When the ballots were counted carefully it was found that Seely's vote in that precinct was actually 77—nine less than counted for him by the election board—and Griffin's vote was 58—seven more than he had been credited with by the board. This resulted in a net gain for Griffin in that precinct of sixteen votes. In the remainder of the precincts he maintained his lead of three votes, so when the count ended Griffin had a total majority of nineteen.

The final result of the recount was:

Griffin	933
Seely	914

Suffering from injuries he claimed he received when struck by a motorcycle, Edward Duncan, an itinerant, aged 50 years, was picked up on the State highway near Atherton by an automobile driver named Benson of San Jose Monday night and brought to the Hulings Hospital in Redwood City. Duncan's right leg is fractured, several ribs and broken and he has a dangerous scalp wound. The doctor who attended the wounded man believes that he was struck by an automobile, and that the driver, after hitting him, sped on. Duncan's condition is considered rather serious. The man had been employed for several days last week at different homes in chopping wood and doing other odd jobs.

CITIZENS OF DAMASCUS GET THE NEWS

Great excitement among the people of Damascus when the Palestine News telling of the surrender of the Germans was distributed.

Thoroughly Satisfied.

He came from Texas and was one of a party invited to swim in the sea from one of the Long Island beaches last summer. He sat in a rocking chair the picture of comfort, but seemed reluctant to shift into a bathing suit.

"Why don't you go in with the rest?" asked the host.

"Well, to tell the honest truth," answered Mr. Texas soldier man, "I haven't sat in a rocking chair in six months, and if you don't mind I reckon I'll stay right here and rock."

And he did.

Can't understand how a Secretary of the Treasury and Director-General who has had to retire because he couldn't live in Washington on his salary can retire to a mansion in Southern California for three months for a vacation. Looks like jumping out of the frying pan into the fire.

Her Hope of Relief.

Her second husband had been buried during the afternoon, and as the dewy shades of evening were gathering over the landscape she sat by the open window waiting and watching the shadows deepen into night.

"What are you watching?" asked a sympathetic neighbor. "I am waiting," said the weeping widow, "for the cats to begin fighting in the back yard. This thing of going to sleep without a quarrel is so new, so unusual, it is too hard to bear. Leave me alone with my grief to gaze on the ever-changing wonders of the starlit skies, and when the cats begin I'll doze off gently."

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and for years it was supposed to be incurable. Doctors prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Catarrh is a local disease, greatly influenced by constitutional conditions and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Medicine, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is a constitutional remedy, is taken internally and acts thru the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System. One Hundred Dollars reward is offered for any case that Hall's Catarrh Medicine fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

INDUSTRIAL CLUB HAS NEW SECRETARY

HORACE A. BEWLEY TO BE IN FULL CHARGE OF ACCOUNTING WORK.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Industrial Club, held on January 2, Horace A. Bewley was appointed to succeed D. E. Curley, who has filled the position of secretary since the organization of the club in January, 1917.

Bewey, who is employed by the San Francisco Cattle Loan Company as an accountant, will have full charge of the books of the organization, the executive work of the club devolving upon Dr. F. S. Dolley, the president.

Bewey's appointment becomes effective immediately, the growth of the printing and publishing business of The Enterprise making it impossible for the former secretary to devote sufficient time to the many details in connection with the operation of the club.

STRAY PLANTS

And it seems like a cruel whim of nature that even laziness gets hungry.

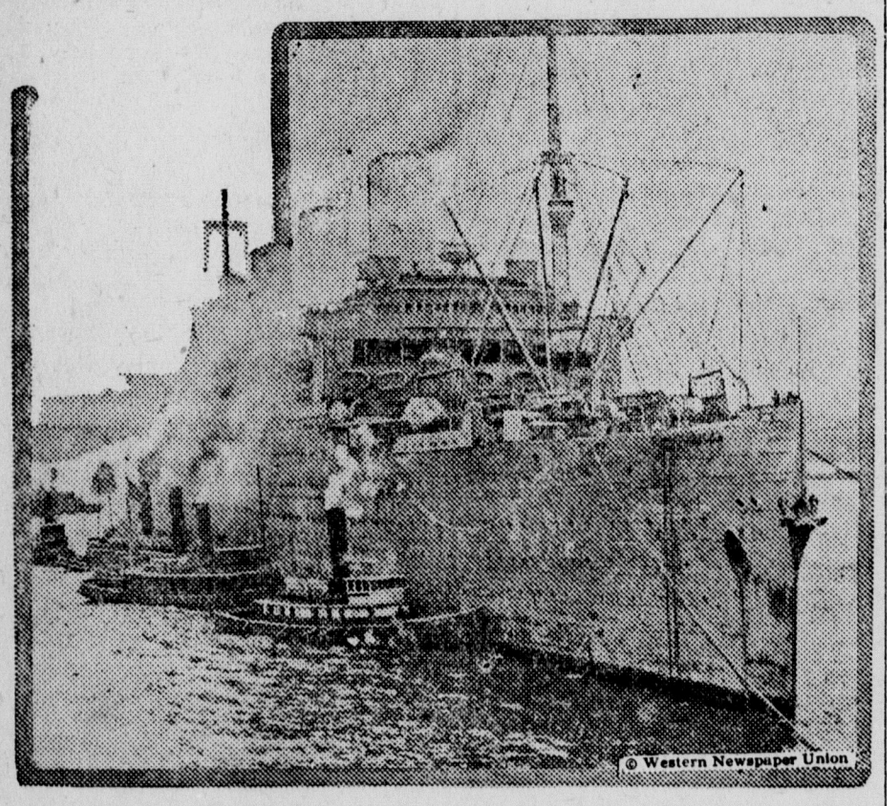
Never push your physical machinery beyond its capacity, but keep it busy.

Man may be the surface anchor between deep thought and high attainment.

Germany in some other analysis might live to bless the graves France gave it.

We cannot be as young as ever, but how we do love to throw off the years and lie about it!

LEVIATHAN BRINGS 8,500 YANKS BACK HOME



The Leviathan being towed to her dock by tugs, after her first voyage since the signing of the armistice. The Leviathan brought back 8,500 soldiers, sailors and civilians, most prominent among them being Lord Decies and Maj. Gen. George A. Barnett, chief of the United States marines, and wife.

We notice that most of the poems and speeches about how sweet it is to die in battle are written by persons who never actually did it.

Chateau-Thierry has convinced even the generalissimos of the hot tamale belt that we didn't retreat from Mexico because we had to.
